

...fess that I only shot one magazine of mixed ammunition.

DIRTY HARRY'S AUTO MAG

Q: I understand that the new "Dirty Harry" movie titled Sudden Impact will feature a .44 Auto Mag Pistol. Apparently Clint Eastwood loses his Smith & Wesson

.44 Magnum revolver and replaces it with the .44 Auto Mag. I also understand that this has inspired AMT to bring the Auto Mag back into production. Why did it fail in the first place?

Mathew White, Torrance, CA

A: You are right in that this film will feature an Auto Mag which was specially put together for Clint Eastwood by AMT. There is no official word that the Auto Mag will be produced again, although this still could happen if the film generates enough interest and demand for the pistol. Apparently it is a very costly gun to manufacture and, in the past, the demand for it was not enough to keep it in production.

MAG-NA-PORTING A PYTHON

Q: I have a six-inch Colt Python that I am